Some producer organisations in the South make impressive social and economic progress. Increasingly, these farmers no longer see themselves as poor – trying to survive – but as ambitious, rural entrepreneurs. But, as these organisations grow and expand, they face a huge obstacle: lack of access to capital. They have outgrown the microfinance market, but are still too small and fragile to be eligible for the traditional investment market or even for most social investors. They are confronted with the so-called missing middle. Kampani addresses the missing middle: it is a social impact investment fund designed to unlock the potential of entrepreneurial farming in the South.
